The Autopoiesis of Architecture, Volume II Patrik Schumacher, 2012-04-24 This is the second part of a major theoretical work by Patrik Schumacher which outlines how the discipline of architecture should be understood as its own distinct system of communication. Autopoiesis comes from the Greek and means literally self production; it was first adopted in biology in the 1970s to describe the essential characteristics of life as a circular self organizing system and has since been transposed into a theory of social systems. This new approach offers architecture an arsenal of general comparative concepts. It allows architecture to be understood as a distinct discipline which can be analyzed in elaborate detail while at the same time offering insightful comparisons with other subject areas such as art, science and political discourse. On the basis of such comparisons, the book insists on the necessity of disciplinary autonomy and argues for a sharp demarcation of design from both art and engineering. Schumacher accordingly argues controversially that design as a discipline has its own sui generis intelligence with its own internal logic, reach and limitations. Whereas the first volume provides the theoretical groundwork for Schumacher's ideas focusing on architecture as an autopoietic system with its own theory, history, medium and its unique societal function, the second volume addresses the specific contemporary challenges and tasks that architecture faces. It formulates these tasks, looking specifically at how architecture is seeking to organize and articulate the complexity of post-fordist network society. The volume explicitly addresses how current architecture can upgrade its design methodology in the face of an increasingly demanding task environment characterized by both complexity and novelty. Architecture's specific role within contemporary society is explained and its relationship to politics is clarified. Finally, the new global style of Parametricism is introduced and theoretically grounded.

Taking Things Seriously Joshua Glenn, Carol Hayes, 2007-08-23 This is a book about the things that inspire all of us, from the sacred to the profane, from everyday objects like a marble or a rubber stamp to the more surprising such as a dirt pile or a turtle tail. Artists, writers, designers among many others contribute their objects and ruminations that encourage, motivate and energize their own creativity. Provided by publisher.

The Architecture of Neoliberalism Douglas Spencer, 2016-10-20 The Architecture of Neoliberalism pursues an uncompromising critique of the neoliberal turn in contemporary architecture. This book reveals how a self-styled parametric and post-critical architecture serves mechanisms of control and compliance while promoting itself at the same time as progressive. Spencer's incisive analysis of the architecture and writings of figures such as Zaha Hadid, Patrik Schumacher, Rem Koolhaas and Greg Lynn shows them to be in thrall to the same notions of liberty as are propounded in neoliberal thought. Analysing architectural projects in the fields of education, consumption and labour, The Architecture of Neoliberalism examines the part played by contemporary architecture in refashioning human subjects into the compliant figures: student, entrepreneurs, citizen, consumers and team workers, requisite to the universal implementation of a form of existence devoted to market imperatives.

Introducing Architectural Tectonics Chad Schwartz, 2016-10-04 Introducing Architectural Tectonics is an exploration of the poetics of construction. Tectonic theory is an integrative philosophy examining the relationships formed between design, construction, and space while creating or experiencing a work of architecture. In this text, author Chad Schwartz presents an introductory investigation into tectonic theory, subdividing it into distinct concepts in order to make it accessible to beginning and advanced students alike. The book centers on the tectonic analysis of twenty contemporary works of architecture located in eleven countries, including Germany, Italy, United States, Chile, Japan, Bangladesh, Spain, and Australia, and designed by such notable architects as Tadao Ando, Herzog & de Meuron, Kengo Kuma, Olson Kundig, and Peter Zumthor. Although similarities do exist between the projects, their distinctly different characteristics, location, and climate context, size, program, construction methods, and range of interpretations of tectonic expression provide the most significant lessons of the book, helping you to understand tectonic theory. Written in clear, accessible language, these investigations examine the poetic creation of architecture, showing you lessons and concepts that you can integrate into your own work, whether studying in a university classroom or practicing in a professional office.

Writing About Architecture Alexandra Lange, 2012-02-29 Extraordinary architecture addresses so much more than mere practical considerations. It inspires and provokes while creating a seamless experience of the physical world for its users. It is the rare writer that can frame the discussion of a building in a way that allows the reader to see it with new eyes. Writing About Architecture is a handbook on writing effectively and critically about buildings and cities. Each chapter opens with a reprint of a significant essay written by a renowned architecture critic, followed by a close reading and discussion of the writer's strategies. Lange offers her own analysis using contemporary examples as well as a checklist of questions at the end of each chapter to help guide the writer. This important addition to the Architecture Briefs series is based on the author's design writing courses at New York University and the School of Visual Arts. Lange also writes a popular online column for Design Observer and has written for Dwell, Metropolis, New York magazine, and The New York Times. Writing About Architecture includes analysis of critical writings by Ada Louise Huxtable, Lewis Mumford, Herbert Muschamp, Michael Sorkin, Charles Moore, Frederick Law Olmsted, and Jane Jacobs. Architects covered include Marcel Breuer, Diller Scofidio + Renfro, Field Operations, Norman Foster, Frank Gehry, Frederick Law Olmsted, SOM, Louis Sullivan, and Frank Lloyd Wright.

Deleuze and Architecture Helene Frichot, 2013-05-20 Critiques the legacy and ongoing influence of Deleuze on the discipline and practice of architecture. This collection looks critically at how Deleuze challenges architecture as a discipline, how architecture contributes to philosophy, and how we can come to understand the complex politics of space of our increasingly networked world. Since the 1980s, Deleuze's philosophy has fuelled a generation of architectural thinking and can be seen in the design of a global range of contemporary built environments. His work has also alerted architecture to crucial ecological, political, and social problems that the discipline needs to reconcile.

The Historiography of Modern Architecture Panayotis Tournikiotis, 2001-02-27 The history of modern architecture as constructed by historians and key texts Writing according to Panayotis Tournikiotis has always exerted a powerful influence on architecture Indeed the study of modern architecture cannot be separated from a fascination with the texts that have tried to explain the idea of a new architecture in a new society During the last forty years the question of the relationship of architecture to its history of buildings to books has been one of the most important themes in debates about the course of modern architecture Tournikiotis argues that the history of modern architecture tends to be written from the present projecting back onto the past our current concerns so that the beginning of the story really functions as a representation of its end In this book the buildings are the quotations while the texts are the structure Tournikiotis focuses on a group of books by major historians of the twentieth century Nikolaus Pevsner Emil Kaufmann Sigfried Giedion Bruno Zevi Leonardo Benevolo Henry Russell Hitchcock Reyner Banham Peter Collins and Manfredo Tafuri In examining these writers thoughts he draws on concepts from critical theory relating architecture to broader historical models
